1. A paragraph from 9th standard is given. Frame seven comprehensive questions.

It was a hot summer day. Some soldiers were hard at work mending a collapsed bridge. The wooden bridge was very old but it was very essential. It connected the contontment — the place where the soldiers camped — and the main town. All the supply to the army came only through the bridge. The captain was shouting at the top of his voice to quicken the work. They cut heavy branches, carried heavier dried logs and were sweating a lot. It was noon. The captain stood on one of the logs and watched the soldiers doing their work. His only work was to watch them and shout.

A man on a horse happened to pass by. He saw the poor soldiers struggling and the captain frowning at them. He got off his horse, went near the soldiers and gave them a helping hand. The soldiers felt very happy that they got at least a little support. That was enough to bring smile on their faces. The logs were in place. The work was over. The captain came down and thanked the man. He asked him, "Where can I meet you again?". The man turned to the soldiers, smiled and said, "Whenever you need help call your President".

That was George Washington, the first President of America.

2. A poem from 9th standard is given, Paraphrase it.

I often contemplate my childhood, Mom,
I am a mother now, and so I know
Hard work is mixed together with the fun;
You earned that when you raised me long ago,
I think of ll the things you gave to me
Sacrifice, devotion, love and tears
Your heart, your mind, your energy and soul
All these you spent on me throughout the years.
You loved me with a never-falling love
You gave me strength and sweet security,
And then you did the hardest thing of all:
You let me separate and set me free.
Every day, I try my best to be Another like the mom you were to me.
